FAQ – Challenges in Business Education + International Student Business Competition: A Mysterious Business Case II

1. Can students of other nationalities participate?

Yes, as long as they are registered as students at a university located in Czechia, Hungary or Slovakia.

2. I am a Master's student. Can I try my luck?

Unfortunately, no. This event is for Bachelor's students only. You must be enrolled in a Bachelor's program at least until 31 December 2025. The organizers will request proof of enrolment (e.g. a confirmation from your study department), which must be submitted no later than 5 January 2026, 16:00.

3. Is participation in the Round Table mandatory?

Yes. The event is designed for participants who wish to engage fully in both parts – the Round Table and the Competition. Non-participation will result in the exclusion of a participant from the Competition.

4. Last year, there was a motivation letter and an entry quiz. Why do you have interviews this year?

The reason is simple: many of the motivation letters submitted last year were AI-generated or did not meet content or length requirements. The quiz assessed basic economic knowledge, but not the motivation. The interview format, while more challenging for everyone, is a more reliable way to confirm that applicants are genuinely interested, willing to participate actively in both parts of the event, and capable of communicating in English at an acceptable level. We are not seeking participants who are unwilling or unable to engage actively in communication.

5. How will the interview be organized?

Students will be offered two possible interview dates and asked to select their preferred option. If they are unable to attend either date, their participation will no longer be considered. Two professors will be present during the interview.

6. Why are there only 18 slots this year?

We are limited by budget and want to focus on selecting the best of the best candidates.

7. Can I attend the Round Table only?

Yes, you may join as a guest on 17 January 2026 without applying for the Competition. However, no costs will be covered for guest participants.

8. What will happen on 17 January 2026?

The Round Table will feature an open discussion, a series of short speeches and workshops led by professors and invited guests. It's a great opportunity to exchange ideas and explore the different perspectives that students and educators have about the learning process.

9. How difficult will the Competition be?

The mysterious business case will be adapted to the Bachelor's level, but participants will need to conduct independent research under mentor supervision. Time is limited, and you'll need to prepare your defense and supporting evidence efficiently. This means, it will be quite difficult.

10. Is participation in outdoor activities mandatory?

Yes. Outdoor activities are an integral part of the Competition. Each team's success depends on all members completing these activities. A team cannot win if some members refuse to participate.

11. I'm not a very sporty person. Should I still apply?

The event is not designed for athletes, but for students eager to challenge themselves and learn new things in business and economics. You'll be encouraged to step out of your comfort zone – not run a marathon. Anyways, consider carefully whether you are ready to go the extra mile.

12. Will the Competition be different from the previous edition?

Yes, partly. This edition introduces new game and outdoor elements and a tighter schedule, making it more challenging and fast-paced. The atmosphere will be more thrilling. However, with fewer participants, the environment will be less anonymous and will foster greater personal development and teamwork.

The Round Table immediately before the Competition will also provide fresh insights to inspire participants.

13. Where will the Competition take place?

That's a secret and nobody will tell you – you'll find out only upon arrival. If you prefer predictability, you are advised to stay home.

14. Who can I contact if I have more questions?

Reach out to the Organizing Team at v4mysterious@vse.cz.

These conditions are valid as of 17 December 2025, 17:00. Any changes will be updated on the webpage: kmp.vse.cz/isbc.
